Eulogy given by her daughter: We are gathered here today in memory of our mother, Betty Webb Lamb Krahmer, so that together we may acknowledge and share both our joy in the gift that her life was to us, and the pain that her passing brings. In sharing the joy and pain together today, may we lessen the pain and remember the joy. I remember her square dancing and singing with the Sweet Adelines, The family gatherings we used to have as kids when her brothers, sisters and our cousins would all pull out instruments and play and sing. Music was a very happy part of her life, and I love to remember her joy in the celebration of singing. I hope you also have a happy place in your mind, to remember her too. Just as we do the best we know how to do, as we live as parents and grandparents. Mom did the best she knew how to do, It may not have always been what we would have wished for, but she was being the best parent and grandparent she knew how to be. Each generation can take the lessons she taught us, good or bad and improve upon them to be the best that they can be. I know I would not be the mother I am today, without the lessons she taught me as a child. This perseverance through adversity is a powerful lesson for us and I believe it is her legacy. What a wonderful lesson she gave us. Keep your priorities straight. Keep that which is most important in focus. Love and care for your family. Let them know in all the ways you can show them that you love them. Don't let adversities or setbacks or any of the distractions of the world keep you from this most important aspect of life. Mom is living the life she always wished for, being loved and adored by Leonard and Dad, and healthy and at peace walking with Jesus. We'll close today with the 23rd Psalm "The Lord is my shepherd, but before we do, on behalf of myself and rest of the family, I'd like to thank you all for coming here today.
